

Opioid Treatment Agreement

Patient Agreement Form – Treatment Agreement for Chronic Opioids

We want to ensure that patients and caregivers have clear communication and safe, effective procedures when patients use opioids.

EFFECTIVENESS: For most patients and pain conditions, opioids are effective pain-relieving medications. However, it is possible opioids will not work well for you and your pain.

SAFETY: Most people can take these drugs safely, but some people do experience side effects. (See below.)

SIDE EFFECTS: Most patients do not have serious side effects or drug interactions. Unfortunately, some do experience side effects and must stop the medication(s). Common side effects include constipation, itching, nausea, vomiting, sedation or lightheadedness. Uncommon reactions include swelling in the legs, water on the lungs, trouble breathing (especially if you have emphysema/COPD or are on other narcotics), mental slowing and loss of coordination, lowering of sex drive, decreased testosterone (male sex hormone) and addiction. Note: Pregnant women using opioids could make their newborn child dependent upon opioids. If you are pregnant, you need to alert your health care provider.

DEPENDENCE: Dependence is not the same as addiction. Many people who take opioids daily will become dependent on them. Dependence is when your body adapts to the medication and then experiences withdrawal if the medication is stopped or lowered too quickly. Withdrawal symptoms include moodiness, aches and pains, sweating, diarrhea, abdominal pain and increased pain.

ADDICTION: Addiction is not the same as dependence. While many people become dependent on daily opioids, only a small percentage of these people will become addicted. Addiction is characterized by behaviors such as loss of control of drug use, compulsive use and craving, and continued use despite harm or risk to the person. When people are addicted, they are not taking opioids simply to treat the pain. Risk factors for the development of addiction include personal or family history of addiction, preadolescent sexual abuse or mental illness.

GOALS

The goals of chronic pain management are to:

1. Improve your ability to function in your daily life
2. Lower your pain

TREATMENT OPTIONS

Opioid Treatment Agreement

This agreement pertains to any opioid medication or any other controlled substances prescribed to you by a provider from our office. These medications will be described in the following agreement as "medication(s)"

I will take the medication as it was prescribed and only in that way.

I will not increase the dose or stop the medication unless asked to do so by my provider or my provider's partner.

I will report any worrisome side effect soon after it begins.

I will follow through on appointments that may help me with chronic pain and functioning. These may include physical and occupational therapy, counseling and other mental health practices, primary care MD, neurosurgery, neurology and orthopedics. Consistent failure to keep these appointments and therapies may result in the stopping of the opioid medications.

If prescribed, I will use medications other than opioids to control pain.

I will accept opioids for chronic pain from my provider only.

I agree to regular office visits for ongoing evaluation and treatment. I will schedule my next appointment in a timely manner, usually at least a month in advance. If I miss an appointment, I will contact the office to make another appointment as soon as possible. I am aware that immediate walk-in appointments will not be granted. I understand that prescriptions can not be mailed nor telephoned. I am aware that prescriptions will only given during normal clinic hours and not during after hours/weekends/holidays.

I will not share, exchange or sell my opioids, as the law prohibits those actions. I understand that my provider will report serious concerns of drug misuse to any and all authorities for investigation.

I agree to bring in unused/discontinued medication back to my provider for proper disposal and documentation in my chart.

I agree to bring my medications in original bottle to every appointment, if asked.

I will not use illegal/street drugs (this includes marijuana). I will not use narcotic medications unless provided to me from my provider.

I agree to provide samples for random drug testing when asked.

If I fail to provide the sample when asked or if the results are unsatisfactory, I may forfeit the right to continue receiving the medication.

I agree to make myself available for random pill counts when asked.

If my provider is concerned that I might have a substance abuse problem, I must agree to an evaluation by a specialist in abuse/addiction. If the evaluation suggests I have a drug abuse problem, my provider may stop my medication in a way that does not cause withdrawal symptoms.

I will not get early refills unless something has dramatically changed and then only if my provider agrees.

I recognize that opioids by themselves, in combination with alcohol or in combination with other sedating medications can result in unclear thinking and loss of coordination. I agree to contact my provider if these symptoms arise. I should not drive or operate equipment if I have these side effects.

I will inform my provider of any other medications I am taking, as there could be interactions.

It is my responsibility to keep my medications safe and secure. If medication are lost, damaged or stolen, the medication generally will not be refilled. Each case will be looked at individually. If the medication is stolen, I must file a police report and submit the number for verification to my provider's office. Again, stolen medications generally will not be refilled.

I understand that ingestion of the medication by a child, pet, or anyone else for whom the medication was not prescribed could lead to serious harm, and even death, for that individual.

I understand that if my provider does not feel I am following through adequately with the treatment plan, my provider may lower or stop the opioid altogether. I understand that in serious or extreme situations, I may be dismissed from the practice.

I understand that my provider may decide to stop the opioid if after increasing it adequately, my pain and function have not responded positively.

By signing this form, I authorize my provider, PrairieShore™ Pain Center, to contact any and all groups and organizations involved with my care and involved with the investigation of medication and drug abuse. I give permission to my provider to discuss my care with past caregivers, all pharmacies and policing agencies. This also gives these caregivers and pharmacies permission to share with my provider information about my past treatments and care.
